ODD FELLOWS.

THE celebration of the 51st anniversary of Crescent Lodge in the Judgeroom last Tuesday evening, details of which were published in the Journal Wednesday morning, demonstrated that a very social meeting could be arranged for and a satisfactory purpose attained without going to a large expense. The unpretentious programme was sufficient to enlist the interest of all in an event of prime interest to the lodge members and the Grand Officers, who were guests of the evening. Crescent Lodge is one of the strongest and most energetic in the jurisdiction, and its attainment of majority in lodge life with an enviable 51 years record was a source of general satisfaction to every Odd Fellow.

The Indians went down to Adelaide Park ball grounds Thursday afternoon, and when they got through with the North Enders the score stood Canonicus 17, What Cheer 14. Wallace, No. 154 Potter's avenue, Thursday afternoon, she having passed away Monday, July 17. In Sister Dodge the Order loses one of its most interested workers. When the Pythian Sisterhood was introduced into Rhode Island she worked hard in its interest and was instrumental in the formation of Rising Sun Council, and by her untiring efforts she placed the assembly among the best in the State, and never lost sight of any help that could be given to Elmwood Lodge, K. of P. Upon the introduction of the Pythian Sisters in this jurisdiction she withdrew from the Sisterhood and organized Elmwood Temple, assisted by others. Her interest in the Order was recognized at the formation of the Grand Temple by placing her at the head of the Order as Grand Chief. As such she devoted almost her entire time to the work pertaining to the office and several temples were formed and instituted, the last one being Eureka Temple of Pawtucket, at the installation of which she presided against the advice of her physician, since which she has been a patient sufferer. She was the daughter of the late Otis N. Angel of North Providence, better known as the inventor and builder of the Angell water wheel. She was the wife of Irving Z. Dodge of this city, who is a member of Elmwood Lodge, K. of P., and several other fraternal Orders. PREMIUM lists for the State Fair have been issued. For challenge classes $12 are offered for first prize. For the more prominent breeds the prizes are $12 for first and $6 for second, with $8 for first and $4 for second prizes in the corresponding puppy classes. In the less important classes the prizes are $10 for first and $5 for second, with $6 and $3 for puppies. For the more prominent breeds, $15 is offered for the best kennel of four or more. This makes a grand total of $2500 in prizes, and it is probable that many specials will be offered by local fanciers.

The entries will close at 10 o'clock p. m. on Sept. 4. This will give ample time for intending exhibitors to place their dogs in condition, and know before entering whether or not they are apt to show. The entrance fee will be $1, which is the smallest fee ever charged for a show in this country. The show will open on Monday, but the kennel exhibit does not open until Tuesday, Sept. 12. Dogs will be received at the Park Monday, and up to 9 o'clock Tuesday morning. After that time the dogs that are not present will not be allowed to compete for the judging will be commenced at 10 o'clock. The kennel show will close at 10 o'clock Friday night, and no dogs will be allowed to be sent away before then. The puppies will be judged, if possible, the first day, and may be removed after the judging. The United States Express Company will return all dogs sent over their line free. Where there is but one class provided for dogs and bitches, if their are five of either sex, a class will be made. If dogs are entered of a breed that a class has not been made for a class will be provided.
